Cul Week at Mount Carmel College: A Celebration of Creativity and Community

The annual Cul Week at Mount Carmel College, held from August 8th to 10th, 2024, was a vibrant showcase of student talent and camaraderie. The three-day intra-collegiate festival featured a variety of themed events, competitions, and activities that captured the spirit of the college community.

Day 1: Tropical Paradise

The festival kicked off with a burst of tropical energy. Students adorned the campus in vibrant colors and floral prints, transforming it into a colorful haven. A surprise performance by a Dhol team set the tone for the day, energizing the crowd with their rhythmic beats. Various stalls, including a photo booth, dessert vendors, and accessory shops, offered a delightful array of treats and souvenirs.

Day 2: Back to Childhood

The second day brought a wave of nostalgia as students embraced their inner child. Dressed as beloved cartoon characters, they indulged in childhood memories with a screening of a classic cartoon episode. The Art and Décor team added to the playful atmosphere by drawing a hopscotch game on the floor. The "Clash of Classes" competition, organized by the Student Council, was a highlight of the day, filled with excitement and laughter. The Fashion Association also hosted a fashion walk, showcasing the creativity of students.

Day 3: Jersey Day

The final day of Cul Week celebrated sportsmanship and team spirit. Students donned jerseys of their favorite teams, and the campus was filled with the energy of athletic competitions. The Sports Association organized various events on the basketball court, while the Street Dance Association took the stage in the DJB basement. The FAD team concluded the day with fashion walks and a special movie promotion.
